Coast Electric to up rates, annual increases expected

By WAYNE DUCOMBER
Coast Electric Power Association will increase its electrical rates for all customers at least 5 percent this summer, with annual increases expected during the next eight to 10 years.

Henry Thomas, association general manager, this week at utility's Bay St. Louis headquarters confirmed the upcoming increase which he said was approved by the Board of Directors recently after reviewing a five-month study conducted for the cooperative by a professional engineering firm.

He also revealed the probable annual rate hikes and said by the year 2000, based on projected inflation figures, that customer electric service costs will double.

Coast Electric serves some 30,206 customers in rural Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River Counties.

Thomas stated, "The primary reason for the increase is that there has not been one since 1975—interest rates are high and we are operating in the red."

"We have had to cut back on services, layoff personnel and reduce our work load," he reported.

"This is not the last increase. We will probably see rate hikes annually for the next eight to 10 years," Thomas stated.

"I see nothing in the cards to prevent this if costs for everything keep going up," he noted.

The association manager reported that within the last 10 years coal has increased from $14-per-ton to $50-per-ton (377 percent), boiler fuel and transformer oil prices have risen 1,000 percent, creosote pole prices are 200 percent higher, aluminum wire costs have increased 100 percent, and the gasoline prices are 25 percent higher.

He noted that during the same time period interest rates have risen from nine to 18 percent annually and short term loans are now at 17 percent.

Thomas also said the cost of a utility truck has increased from $3,000 in 1974 to $7,900 in 1981.

"Everything, including labor costs, have gone up," he stated.

The association manager said if the Rural Electric Association in Washington, D.C. approves the higher rate, which will be formally requested on April 20, June electric bills will reflect the increase.

He cited the present 5.4-cents-per-kilowatt-hour rate will rise to 5.8 with the increase.

Thomas reported that a higher rate increase will be imposed upon 'absentee' and 'temporary' electrical use customers.

But he also noted that the 'biggest increase' will be levied against security light customers.

"Last year we lost $77,000 on security lights. The rate for each light is now just under $5-per-month. After the increase is approved, the monthly cost for each light will be about $6," Thomas stated.

Regarding statements last year by association officials reporting that electrical usage by Borg-Warner Chemicals new Port Blenville Industrial Park plant would defer a rate increase, Thomas said, "Borg-Warner's load wasn't as large as anticipated."

"They have reduced the originally planned size of their plant and number of employees," he noted.

Thomas also said that the electric utility company has paid their own way.

Thomas said.

In reference to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors unanimous vote Monday objecting to the rate hike, Thomas stated, "We agree with the supervisor's opposition too."

"We just want to stay in business. If we don't provide service to meet growth in this area, customers will experience power outages," he reported.

"The reason for this increase is a simple matter of economics," Thomas said.

The association manager noted that Coast Electric purchases electricity through the South Mississippi Electric Power Association headquartered in Hattiesburg which also generates electricity at its own coal-fired plant near Purvis.

He reported South Mississippi owns a coal mine in Kentucky which supplies fuel for the Purvis plant.

Thomas said South Mississippi purchases surplus electricity "where it can be bought the cheapest" from such companies as Mississippi Power and Light, Mid South Utilities, Mississippi Power Co., Alabama Electric Cooperative, Tennessee Valley Authority, the Department of Interior's Alabama plant, and Big Rivers in Kentucky.

"We will also be buying electricity from the Grand Gulf Nuclear Plant in Port Gibson," he stated.

The association manager said that plant will begin operating in spring or summer of 1983.

Thomas urged all Coast Electric customers to help the company pay its bills by making their payments as they can.

'Sneaking around' accusation denied by Mississippi Power

By BRENT MACEY
Mississippi Power Company officials have denied accusations by a Pearl River County resident that the company has been 'sneaking around' in an attempt to build a $600,000 volt transmission line through the northern part of Hancock County and the southern portion of Pearl River County.

Donald Dana Jr., manager of public relations for Mississippi Power, stated, "The statement that the company has been 'sneaking around' is false and completely absurd."

"We have nothing to hide. We had a press conference to explain to the news media that all the procedures taken are in accordance with the rules and regulations set by state regulatory agencies and the laws of Mississippi."

Dana's comments are in reference to statements by Sheila Madden of Pearl River which were published in a recent edition of The Sea Coast Echo.

Besides noting she felt the company was sneaking around, Madden also stated she felt she had received misinformation and no information from the power company.

Some of that same sentiment was also voiced at a March 11 meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors. Dana also denied those accusations.

"We have not given out any misinformation to the public. We have given out specific information based on fact," he noted.

He noted the Power Company met with the Public Service Commission in early January and obtained permits to survey for the line.

Survey work has been conducted in Hancock County. Residents in Pearl River County recently stated they have received advanced notice that a survey will be conducted in that county soon.

Dana stated the exact route of the line has not been determined.

The company is planning to build a 140 mile transmission line from the Daniel Generating Plant in Pascagoula westward to a point near Baton Rouge. The line will connect Southern Co., of which Mississippi Power is a part, to Gulf States Utilities of Beaumont, Texas.

A meeting with the Public Service Commission is set for March 25 for the purpose of obtaining a permit from that agency needed to begin construction.

Madden and other citizens have raised questions of whether the line will create a possible health hazard.

However, Dana said, "There has been no evidence of harmful effects of high voltage transmission lines to human plants or animals."

He stated, "A number of research studies with respect to high voltage lines have been conducted—and continue to be conducted—by highly respected, well qualified medical researchers, not just engineers."

He noted, "There have been persons, who from time to time, have charged that these lines, as well as transmission lines of lower voltage, were harmful to humans or plant and animal life. Such claims have never been substantiated."

A Tulane engineering professor who claims he has spent some 20 years studying the effects of high voltage lines, disagrees with Dana and the power company and claims there are numerous hazardous effects.

In an eight-page report, signed publicly at a recent meeting of the Pascagoula Parish Police Jury, Dr. Charles Beck of Tulane University discussed adverse effects of the line.

The Police Jury was considering passing an ordinance which would make construction of the line very difficult for the power company in that county.

According to informed sources, ordinance was never passed as a result of a deadlock vote.

Beck, in the report, stated several studies conducted by research groups including the National Cancer Institute, the National Institute for Environmental Health Sciences, and the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences, all failed to find any evidence of harm to humans or animals from high voltage lines.

Beck also stated that the power company has been very cooperative in providing information to the public and that the line is necessary for the economic development of the region.

Citizens protest proposed county animal shelter site

By BRENT MACEY
Citizens living near an animal shelter site proposed for construction on the banks of the Bay St. Louis sewerage lagoon sent a petition to members of the Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday protesting that location.

The petition, signed by some 101 residents of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, states, "We the undersigned property owners object to the animal shelter being constructed at the proposed site."

"We feel that it would create a problem with the animals already in the area and also a lot of other problems."

After reading the petition and accepting it into the city council minutes Tuesday night, councilmen scratched their heads for a solution.

This is at least the third time that a proposed site for the shelter has been objected to by citizens in the proposed areas.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett noted that some dirt needed to fill up an area under the foundation of the site has already been spread by workers.

"No construction work has started," he stated.

"I will have to get with the Humane Society and the Sea Bees (United States Navy) and say no more work until the council makes a decision," Bennett said.

He noted he does not think all the fill transported to the site has been utilized.

Councilman James Thriffley noted Waveland, Hancock County and now Bay St. Louis have all attempted to resolve the animal shelter problem.

All have failed.

"We are going to have to go back to square one," Councilman James Thriffley stated.

"I think we should appoint somebody from the city to meet with the county and Waveland. It's foolish to have all these good intentions and never get anyplace."

The council agreed to appoint Councilman Sheldon Seuzeneau, who was not present at the meeting, the mayor and Council Attorney Joseph Gex to a committee which will meet with officials from Waveland and the county in an attempt to solve the problem.

In other business, the council agreed to pay $4,000 to the city of Waveland for tests done by that city's technicians on the Bay St. Louis sewerage treatment lagoon.

The payment was for eight months of testing and the councilmen instructed Gex to draw up a contract with Waveland for future work of that nature.

Gex said the contract should be ready for the council's signatures by the first meeting in April—April 6.

In further business, the council was informed by Ron Murray, Consultant for the Bay St. Louis Small Cities Project, that Housing and Urban Development has approved a $186,877 contract with Southland Enterprises of Gulfport to do gas line renovation work in the outlined project area.

The council awarded the contract to that company at their last meeting but had to await HUD's approval before the contract could be finalized.

Tuesday the council approved signing the final contract with the company.

Murray said work should begin soon. Also at the meeting, the council:

- Approved setting $3,500 as a lump sum payment to Bay Engineer James Chiniche following the completion of his duties in repairing Leonhard Street wall. Chiniche will be writing bid specifications for the job and also supervising the work.
- Heard a report from Gex who stated a contract agreeing to have Bay St. Louis join the Waveland Wastewater Authority for Hancock County should be completed some time in April.

Fayard joins Arson Squad

By BRENT MACEY
Reginald A. (Reggie) Fayard Jr. has been commissioned as an arson squad investigator for Hancock County.

He replaces his late uncle, Chief Kenneth Fayard and joins Ed Rillour and Jay Marsh on the county's arson squad.

Alert store clerk spots slay suspect

Pass Christian police Wednesday arrested a 26-year-old Pass man in connection with the stabbing death of a convenience store clerk Saturday.

Charged with capital murder is Darryl Swarner, accused of killing John J. Mickel at the Jr. Food Store on East Second Street in Pass Christian.

Pass Christian Chief of Police Ed Alley said Swarner was arrested about 3 a.m. after he was detained for questioning at the Jr. Food Store at Market Street and U.S. 90 in Pass Christian.

taken during the armed robbery-murder.

The bill was positively identified by its serial number, which had been recorded by the Jr. Food Store manager before Mickel was robbed and killed, said Alley.

Police were able to apprehend Swarner on the basis of a physical description of him given by the clerk Tuesday night.

Swarner is confined to the Harrison County jail in Gulfport.

Investigating were Pass Christian Police Department Investigator John Dubilsson, Pass Christian Police Department Patrolman Judy Murphy, Capt. Sylvester Alexander of the Harrison County Sheriff's Office and Investigator Dick Wenninger of the Long Beach Police Department.

Time-share ban likely

By BRENT MACEY

The Waveland Board of Aldermen were expected to pass an ordinance banning time-sharing condominiums in the city at its regular meeting Wednesday in City Hall.

Alderman Barbara Rappold, also a zoning official for the city's Planning and Zoning Commission, Tuesday stated she planned to make that recommendation to the aldermen Wednesday night.

Her comments Tuesday followed a public hearing on Monday which was scheduled by the commission to hear input on the issue.

Rappold had recommended the ordinance be passed at a February meeting of the aldermen. However, the aldermen suggested having a public hearing before taking action.

Rappold explained some 34 people attended the hearing Monday and 30 were opposed to allowing construction of the time sharing units.

The time sharing condominium concept is based on having a number of people own individual units in the condominium.

Each week, or every two weeks, a new owner occupies a unit.

Richard Hymel, a New Orleans developer, had proposed building a 16-unit time sharing condominium on back part of his property bordering Beach Boulevard and Alker Drive.

That property is zoned R-3—multi dwelling—as opposed to other sections of the beach which are zoned R-1—single family residential.

Rappold said property owners at the public hearing objected to opening the residential area up to "a lot of people."

She estimated each of the 16 units would house some 50 different families during a year.

Estimating that each family would consist of four individuals, Rappold stated some 3,200 people would be living in the units each year.

She said people at the meeting complained that crime would increase in the area due to that increase and turnover in population.

"They also said they would never know who their neighbors are. If something wrong was going on at your neighbor's house, what would you do, call the police and complain about that man in apartment A in section B who is the second owner or third owner?" she said.

R. Christopher Wood, an attorney representing Hymel, at the meeting stated that since the units would be owned by families, they would take pride in keeping the area clean.

He also noted that his client's property was zoned R-3 and that the plan for the time sharing unit is designed to meet all city requirements pertaining to that zoning.

Walker Phillips, a Bay St. Louis attorney representing Beach Front Property owners, claimed his clients want to keep the beach as a single family area.

He stated the time sharing condominiums would be like running a hotel on residential property.

Rappold noted the meeting lasted some 1.5 hours and that Phillips and Wood were both given 10 minutes to speak.

The floor was then opened to questions and comments.

condition in which the body's defense sees its own cells as antigenic or foreign, such as in the case of leukemia," Beck's report states.

Beck also noted that that very young animals give evidence of increased delays in brain functioning.

Citing Dr. Phillips Research Project No. 799 where piglets were examined under similar high voltage conditions, Beck states that study shows that "performance of exposed pigs in seven choice mazes was inferior to that of sham-exposed pigs at eight, 12, 16 and 24 weeks of age."

"Exposed pigs had slower start latencies, slower goal speeds, more errors, and took more trials to learn the maze," he reports.

Other alterations cited in the report include "increased excitability of nerve synapses."

"Since nerve synapses involve a chemical means of transmitting impulses within the central nervous system, any alteration of the extremely fine balance which must be maintained for coordinated transmission can result in extended nerve misfirings which is the situation that exists in multiple sclerosis."

"Jerky twitching movements can be observed," he writes.

Beck also reports that lightning strikes increase in the area around transmission lines "because they are the highest physical objects in the vicinity which offer a conducting path to the ground."

"When one of these lightning bolts strikes the shield wires and part of it is shunted off to the side of the right-of-way, fireballs will sometimes move across the roofs of homes and other buildings located just outside of the edge of the right-of-way, and death is likely for people and animals that happen to be located in this area."

"Consequently, the area immediately outside the right-of-way and for a hundred feet on each side is safer from lightning without the line being there than will be the case if the line is constructed as proposed."

Beck concludes the eight page report with this statement.

"Consequently, an informed individual would either have to be unconcerned or would have to totally ignore this scientifically proven data in order to not want to provide proper protection or avoidance from locations where such electric fields exist because of the real potential of health hazards to humans and other animals with a reasonable degree of scientific certainty."

Global foreign policy should replace America's current step-by-step diplomacy

In his first year as president, Ronald Reagan has treated the Soviet Union as the primary obstacle to world peace, even though numerous other trouble spots in the world need attention, says a University of Mississippi political science professor.

Russia, in the eyes of American foreign policy, said Dr. Gobardhan Bhagat, is an expert on international relations. Asia and U.S. foreign policy, Dr. Bhagat, a former United Nations diplomat from India who has taught political science for more than 17 years.

"The United States has a primary focus, and that is the confrontation with the Soviet Union," Dr. Bhagat said. "When the new administration came into power in January 1981, Secretary of State Alexander Haig—with the probable blessings of President Reagan—began to denounce Russia as a terrorist country which had been initiating and promoting terrorism around the world."

He added that, at the same time, Haig began to denounce former President Jimmy Carter's human rights policies, his accommodations with the Soviet Union and weaknesses in dealing with Iran during the hostage crisis. Also, Haig criticized Carter's lack of foreign policy consistency and promised a coherent foreign policy under the new administration, Dr. Bhagat said.

"However, within months after taking office, the Reagan administration made a 180 degree turn and initiated arms talks with Russia, which is something they said they would never do," he said.

Several key areas in the world loom as potential trouble spots, he said, but are not linked with the political struggle between America and Russia.

"The Reagan administration condemns human rights violations within Russia and the Communist world, but doesn't condemn human rights violations in authoritarian countries such as South Korea, the Philippines and Argentina," Dr. Bhagat said. "There are trouble spots in the world free of the East-West confrontation—ones that are essentially local in nature. For example, India's purchase of military equipment from Russia and the buildup of arms within Pakistan might embroil these enemies of the sub-continent, despite the fact that the superpowers do not want war between them."

Another threat that is outside the realm of the struggle between Russia and the U.S. are the economic inroads being made by Japan in world trade markets, he commented.

"While the U.S. and the Soviet Union are making world headlines jockeying for power, emerging Japan is making money. Indeed, the world market belongs to Japan. The Soviet Union poses a threat to the U.S., but Japan has crippled this country's economy."

Continuing conflicts between the superpowers, as well as more turmoil in Latin America and a deteriorating situation in the Middle East, will keep the United States busy on many different fronts during the new year, the professor commented.

For instance, in Iran a bitter civil war is already underway and the likely vacuum created in the future with an ailing and aging Ayatollah Khomeini could pull the superpowers into real confrontation in the Persian Gulf area, he said. Other potential trouble areas in the new year include the deep-rooted conflict between Iran and Iraq, the struggle between Israel and Syria, the annexation of the Golan Heights, the return of the Sinai peninsula to Egypt and the continuing crisis in Poland, he said.

Also, Dr. Bhagat said, Communist China will exert more influence during the new year, involving Russia and the United States either directly or indirectly. He pointed out that China denounces the U.S. arms deal with Taiwan, but does not denounce Russia's involvement in Poland.

"Since the last day of the Carter administration and the beginning of the Reagan presidency, the United States has moved closer to China. The Soviet Union feels that America will arm China so that China could contain Russia, thus hurting the communist giant seriously," Dr. Bhagat said.

"Communist China is going to stay in world politics, play a larger role in the 1980s, and make bolder moves on political, economic and military fronts in the future."

"But Japan cannot be ignored, Europe cannot be neglected, and India cannot be bypassed. America's outlook should indeed be global and not only a step by step response to Russia's move," the professor feels.

EM3 KOCH

Navy Electrician's Mate Third Class Mark A. Koch, son of Raymond C. and Mary L. Koch of 958 S. Beach, Bay St. Louis, recently participated in the rescue of 37 Vietnamese "boat people."

He is a crewmember aboard the frigate USS Bagley, homeported in San Diego. The small boat was spotted signaling with Kerosene torches, about 300 miles northeast of Singapore. The refugees had been without food or engine power for four days. Despite their ordeal, they were reported to be in good condition.

The Bagley is 438 feet long and carries a crew of 245. It is equipped with guns, missiles and anti-submarine torpedoes.

AIRMAN WOODS

Airman Eric S. Woods, son of Warren W. and Dorothy Woods of 386 Morton Ave. in Pass Christian, was recently assigned to Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the communications intelligence field.

Woods is a 1981 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

Bits 'n pieces

The severe cold this winter has taken its toll on vegetation in our area. Many of our plants and shrubs were unable to take the eight-degree cold.

We know our azaleas took a severe beating, yet we are lucky enough to have some now in full bloom. The amount of flowers are down from last spring, so we hope they will be up to par next season.

It seems the bridal wreath and Japanese tulips were not affected by the cold too much as we have seen them in bloom.

The oldtimers are still concerned with the possibility of another freeze as the pecan trees have not started to sprout. They say the frost is over when the pecan trees begin to sprout.

Our public school teachers are still angry with legislators for their failure to provide pay raises for the educators.

The one big gripe with the teachers is how the legislature could see ways of providing large salary increases for some elected and appointed officials and forget them.

We are glad to learn elected state officials, State Senator Martin Smith and Representative J. P. Compretta, were in support of our teachers.

As a matter of record, the coastal elected officials did not slip out for lunch when the teachers were in force on a visit to the capital pushing for a salary increase.

The Hancock County jail lost one-third of its population Tuesday to the state.

This came at a good time when you consider a total of 27 prisoners were being cared for in a facility which was constructed for a less number.

The ten inmates collected by the state were already sentenced, and only three state prisoners remain because their sentences are on appeal.

The population in the local jail was down to eight several months ago when the state collected a group of inmates and it wasn't long before it was overflowing which will probably happen in a few weeks.

There is a need for a new jail and maybe one day we will get one.

April 1 is fast approaching and there are several hundred residents who have not filed for homestead exemptions.

Tax collector-assessor Edward Murtagh told us this week it is very important for persons who qualify to do so before the end of March.

If a person qualifies and does not properly file for homestead exemption, he could possibly pay double in property taxes.

Residents already on file as having previously received homestead exemptions have been mailed forms to sign early in January to return by mail to the tax office.

It is possible some of these may have been misplaced in the mail and if you haven't received yours, we would suggest you call Murtagh's office.

A second mailing of a notification on post cards was recently sent to about 700 persons and yet all have not responded.

Regardless of the age of property owners, even if exempt over age 65, or totally disabled, must file a homestead exemption form each year.

Those of us who feel a little lazy on Saturday evening and not interested in cooking supper, may want to take advantage of a benefit spaghetti dinner sponsored by the Band Aides.

The dinner will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Main Street in Bay St. Louis. We understand some fine chefs will do the cooking. Dinner will be served from 4-8 p.m.

A donation of $3 per person is requested.

PERSONAL DONATION—Glen Page, left, accepts a personal check from Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lizana to go toward the Bay High Tiger Pride's trip to the Washington, D.C. Cherry Blossom Festival in April. Mr. Lizana, a retired milk distributor said, "I feel this is a great educational opportunity for our young people and I am happy my wife and I can make this contribution to the great Tiger Pride Band." Page reports only a few hundred dollars remain to be collected to meet the projected expenses for the trip. The Tiger Pride Band will be the official representative of the State of Mississippi on their visit to Washington. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Non-smokers injured by smokers' pollution

Passive smokers — those who breathe in the smoke from other people's cigarettes — fared just as badly on certain tests of pulmonary function as active smokers in a recent study made by Dr. Heinz J. Wittig, head of the allergy department of the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans.

Results of the survey of 322 non-asthmatic and 72 asthmatic subjects and published in the spring issue of Ochsner Report, the quarterly publication of the Ochsner Medical Institutions.

The similarity of reaction between passive and active smokers showed up dramatically in those tests which involved functions of the small airways, those tiny passageways on the periphery of the lungs which tend to close down and eventually cause emphysema.

"Although certain individuals may be completely unaffected by smoking heavily for decades, the average individual will suffer ill effects in the long run," Dr. Wittig says.

"The bottom line of the study is that somebody who lives and works with someone who smokes heavily develops difficulties in his small airway functions as if he had smoked himself," points out Dr. Wittig, who presented his findings at a recent meeting of the American Academy of Allergy.

The results of the study were published in a recent edition of the Journal of Allergy and Clinical Immunology.

Dr. Wittig found that the large airways were not significantly affected by smoking. That is reflected in the two important measurements of vital capacity and peak flow. Vital capacity measures how many liters of air can be taken in with a deep breath and expelled. Peak flow indicates how fast the air comes out.

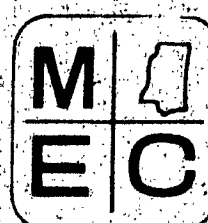

The story was quite different when measuring the function of the small airways, he points out. "Those measurements which have some use in the assessment of small airway functions were significantly lower in active and in passive smokers than in non-exposed non-smokers among both the asthmatic and non-asthmatic persons tested," he states.

Dr. Wittig says his work is an outgrowth of other studies made on children in 1979 in which it was found that children of smoking parents had significant decrease in their small airways functions when compared with the "Normals." The damage was twice as great if two parents smoked than if only one smoked.

His own study showed that a non-smoker who lives with someone who smokes a pack a day will show about the same damage to the small airways as the "light" or five-cigarettes-a-day smoker. This was true for both asthmatics and non-asthmatics.

All is not hopeless, however, Dr. Wittig says, pointing out that "damage to the small airways can correct itself, to some extent, with time." In the ex-smoker category, subjects who have not smoked too heavily for five years or more showed regain some of their lost pulmonary function.

MISSISSIPPI

ECONOMIC COUNCIL

LAY SCHOOL BOARD ENDORSED BY MEC

The Mississippi Economic Council today urged the Legislature to adopt a House-passed version of a bill calling for an appointed lay state board of education—a change the Council says is of paramount importance to the future of public education in the state.

"Mississippi's public education system can be improved," said W. W. Gresham, Jr., MEC chairman. The Indianola businessman explained that the current state board of education is an ex-officio board composed of the superintendent of education, the secretary of state, and the attorney general. Mississippi is one of only two states that utilize an ex-officio board. The majority of the rest have an appointed lay board.

"Measures to establish a lay state board of education have passed both the state Senate and the House of Representatives," said Gresham. "The measures differ and a conference committee from both houses has been invited to forge a compromise."

The House version provides for an appointed lay state board which will appoint the superintendent of education. The Senate version provides for an elected lay state board which will appoint the superintendent.

"MEC has long endorsed an appointed lay state board of education with staggered terms to prevent selection of a majority of the board during any four-year period."

Gresham said that the reasons for an appointed board are obvious. "The Council believes that an appointed school board can provide a greater service and more effective leadership than an elected board whose members must be concerned about the political consequences of any difficult decisions," he said.

CONSUMER REPORT

BEWARE OF WANDERING HOME CONTRACTORS

Attorney General Bill Allain is warning Mississippians to be wary of wandering home repair contractors who are beginning to surface in the state due to the early springlike weather.

According to Allain, information from the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office shows that Mississippians "are often taken advantage of by con artists who claim to be painters, carpenters and roofers. What appears to be fast and cheap repair work turns out inferior and expensive. These so-called contractors often work on advance-pay basis and have no intention of doing quality work. Many times the work is unfinished or never started."

According to the Attorney General, Mississippians can guard against contractor problems by following these suggestions:

1. Check the reputation of a contractor with the Better Business Bureau, banks building or trade associations, city building permit departments, or friends familiar with the contractor.
2. Get the names and addresses of several contractors. An effective approach is to ask friends and neighbors who have previously hired a contractor. It is risky to deal with an unfamiliar company or individual.
3. Get a firm, written estimate with a specific description of the work to be done, the type and quality of materials to be used, and include the total cost of the job. Never hire a contractor who has not come to the house to appraise the work.
4. Ask for a written contract based on his estimate. Read the contract carefully. Have an attorney or trustworthy person review the contract before you sign. Be certain that the contract includes: the name, address, and phone number of the contractor; a complete description of the work; a specific description of the materials to be used; a provision requiring written approval for any changes in the agreed-to plans and specifications; a guarantee containing clearly stated terms that covers all promised items; a provision setting forth the total cost of the work and the specific terms of payment for materials and labor. The contract must include the signature of the contractor. Never sign any contract containing blank space.
5. Never agree to a contract calling for substantial payments on the total amount before work is begun unless there is a legitimate reason known to you. Try to arrange payments in installments as portions of the work are satisfactorily completed.
6. Never rely on oral guarantees. If a guarantee is not written it is generally worthless.

The "Federal Truth in Lending Law" also provides a cancellation period. This law gives you three days to cancel if the contractor received a security interest, such as a mortgage, on your home as part of the transaction.

For additional information contact your Attorney General Bill Allain, Consumer Protection Division, P. O. Box 220, Jackson, Miss. 39205.

After directing scores of low-budget features destined for the drive-in trade, Jack Nicholson had an accident, according to his film collaborator Bob Rafelson. That accident was Easy Rider and it won him acclaim as an actor and made him a screen emblem of an entire generation. Recognized as the anti-hero in Five Easy Pieces, a misfit ground down by overwhelming forces, Nicholson always veered away from the standard commercial Hollywood films. He risked some experimental ventures, like Milos Forman's Cuckoo's Nest and Warren Beatty's Reds. In The Postman Always Rings Twice, on HBO this month, Nicholson continues the ongoing screen collaboration between himself and Bob Rafelson (Five Easy Pieces and King of Marvin Gardens).

Hancock seniors protest state federal funds axing

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The director of the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center in Bay St. Louis and 15 users of the facility appeared at a County Board of Supervisors meeting Monday to protest a proposed withdrawal of funds which would shut down the local program.

Eve McDonald, center director, said officials of the State Welfare Department "must be crazy" in their decision to eliminate funding for day care programs for the elderly.

EVE McDONALD

"It's not Reaganomics which is causing the elimination of our local program. This is a decision by the Welfare Department," she reported. McDonald said the state is allotted $26 million this year in Title 20 federal funds to support various recreation programs.

She noted the center provides transportation and various other services to some 200 Hancock senior citizens with about $100,000 provided annually by the federal government.

The supervisors unanimously agreed to draft letters to the Welfare Department, the department's board of directors, and to Gov. William Winter opposing the funding cut.

McDonald stated, "Our program is a lifeline for senior citizens of our county, but the Welfare Department has decided not to serve individuals above the poverty line."

"We've already cut staff members in our program," she said.

A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, Hancock Supervisors president, noted that the federal funds pay operational costs for two buses utilized for the seniors and owned by the county.

He said the county could not afford to assume those operational costs.

Several of the senior citizens appealed to the board to request their assistance.

EUGENIA BENOIT

Eugenia Benoit said, "Please try to help us. I have everything I need except someone to take me to the doctor. The senior citizen program provides this service for me."

"Please try to help us. I only have a little sight left in my eyes so I need someone to drive me to the doctor and grocery store," she added.

JOSEPHINE HOPKINS

Josephine Hopkins stated, "With all of us working together I hope we can continue our program."

OLINE MORAN

Oline Moran noted, "Senior citizens really helped me because my husband's death left me in a depression. Senior citizens helped me out of that depression."

"I would appreciate anything you can do," she added.

MARY SMITH

Mary Smith said, "I would ask you all to do anything you can to help us."

"Senior citizens gives us things to do where we use our limbs and improve our health. Without the center we would not be able to do this," she stated.

"I would appreciate it if you all could do something," she added.

MADLINE GALLATY

Madeline Gallaty reported, "What would be taken away wouldn't be the care, but mainly a chance for us to be with our peers."

"Everyone here has at least one senior citizen in the family. But without any family this program is a very necessary thing," she said.

"This program provides transportation to the grocery and doctor and assists us in our everyday needs," Gallaty added.

RIDGLEY CURRY

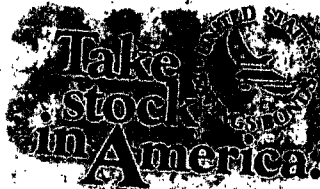

Ridgley Curry, a blind member, stated, "For the last few years I have been a member of senior citizens."

"I found my way to the center several years ago and I love being a part of senior citizens," he noted.

"I thank you supervisors for the work you all did to help the center," Curry said.

"You all have mothers and fathers who are senior citizens and some day or another you all will be old," he stated.

"I don't know where I would go if they turn our funds down. Thank you all very much and please do anything you can to help us," Curry added.

SPORTS

Pass coach expecting good season

The Pass Christian High School varsity boys baseball team will consist of eight returning starters from last season which posted a 10-3 record.

First baseman Darryl Hayden, second baseman

Randall Ladner and third baseman Ira Bradley are back to anchor the infield.

Ricky Ladner returns as the designated hitter while catcher Jamie Jenkins is back behind the plate handling the pitching staff.

Pitcher Jeff Ulrich, who posted a 7-3 record last season will anchor that staff.

Randall Ladner, who went 3-0 last season, will be the number two starting pitcher.

Sophomore Ramone Henderson will replace Mike Hall at short stop as well as being the number three pitching starter.

Offensively the Pirates appear to be strong. Head Coach Joe Campbell noted.

Richard Dedaux, Ricky

Ladner, and Bradley all hit over 300 last season. Pitching and defense however appear to be the Pirates strongest suit, he stated.

Campbell rates catcher Jamie Jenkins as the best defensive catcher in the district.

He feels experience, pitching and good defense could carry the Pirates far in district play this season.

National Seashore camping fees increased

Fees for the use of the two campgrounds within Gulf Islands National Seashore will increase by $3 per night effective Friday.

The new rates will be $6 per campsite per night for sites without electrical hookups and $7 for sites with electricity.

This increase is based upon a survey of private and public campgrounds with similar facilities conducted late last year in the vicinity of the two campgrounds.

This survey, and others conducted throughout the country, showed that rates in National Park Service campgrounds were generally far below the rates charged elsewhere, resulting in unfair competition with other campgrounds.

Under the new schedule, rates in the 67 national park campgrounds where fees were charged range from $5 to $7 per night.

The new rates represent an average increase of 25 percent for national park campgrounds.

The two Gulf Islands campgrounds are located in the Park's seashore near Ponce de Leon Inlet and the Ponce de Leon Inlet area in Ocean Springs.

Both campgrounds offer campers with paved parking, picnic tables, charcoal grills, and water hookups.

Restrooms, including showers, are centrally located and each campground has a dumping station for disposal of sewage from recreational vehicles.

All 51 of the campsites at Davis Bayou have electrical hookups, while about half of Fort Pickens' 165 sites are so equipped.

Reservations are not available for either campground, but competition for the sites is particularly strong during holiday periods.

Campgrounds are located in the heart of the park and are well protected from the elements. The campgrounds are situated in a beautiful natural setting with a variety of recreational opportunities.

Revenues from campsite fees are used to maintain the campgrounds and to provide for the interpretation and education programs.

PRC trustees encouraged by sound financial report

Ron Holmes, Pearl River Junior College's business manager, told the board that Pearl River was in sound financial condition, "making headway at this time," Holmes said. "Our budget is doing well, I'm very pleased with it."

Holmes gave the board a six-month report on revenue collected and expenditures ending December 31.

The PRC Board also approved a $44,000.50 progress payment to Carter-Mullins Corporation of Columbia for work completed on the $750,000 renovation project going on here at the Poplar village campus. Another Pearl River College building will also receive a $140,000 progress payment.

The PRC Trustees after receiving Holmes' report decided to purchase one bus from Memphis Sales Company of Bartlett and one from Bus Supply Company of Memphis. The board also gave Holmes permission to advertise for two new vans for use during the next school year.

Pearl River provides a commuter bus system for students within the county district which supports PRC.

The school has replaced its transportation during the past two years.

An information type session, Dr. Betsy Adams, director of education and research, director of financial planning, and director of personnel departments met at the school.

Dr. Adams told the board that they could also be very beneficial in aiding PRC's financial situation. Adams said that the school was looking very good for the coming fall semester. However, she did not anticipate a bright picture for financial aid here at PRC and across the state. We will not receive significant reduction in funds during the coming year, but 1982-1983 may be a different story.

Fairley said, "President Reagan will not be alone, but student aid over the next three years."

"Many of our students may suffer after this year," Fairley said. "But we will not be alone. The senior colleges will feel the effects as much, if not more, than us."

Fairley pointed out that students attending Pearl River College will spend about $2,000 per year, while senior college students will spend $3,500 per school term.

"This figure is based on a full-time student, living on campus for the two semesters," Fairley said.

The board concluded its business by approving the February claim docket of $300,158.81.

AMERICAN VALUES

Peter Davis, an Academy, Emmy and Peabody award-winning filmmaker, captures life in a "typical" American town—"Middletown"—at 9 p.m., Wednesdays, beginning March 24, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Davis went to Muncie, Ind., to find out how the town's typical American values have survived the turbulent passage into the 1980s. What he discovered and filmed for "Middletown" were the rich human dramas beneath the surface of local life, as people work, play, learn, love and pursue their ambitions in the heart of the nation.

In six separate films, "Middletown's" cameras caught the hoopla and the personal intensity behind a hotly contested race for mayor of Muncie; the deep local rivalries in a high school basketball game; a local fundamentalist religious group; a family's struggle to save their business from bankruptcy; a courtship and marriage; and a group of high school seniors as they prepare for graduation.

SSC scholars score at rally

Eleven students from St. Stanislaus High School participated in the State Science and Mathematics Tournament held recently at Mississippi College in Clinton. Seventy schools and over 600 of the state's top students competed for highest academic honors in biology, St. Stanislaus won ten top 10 percent awards which was the second highest number won by any school in the statewide competition.

Award certificates along with a $100 scholarship were presented to students who scored in the top 10 percent in this competition.

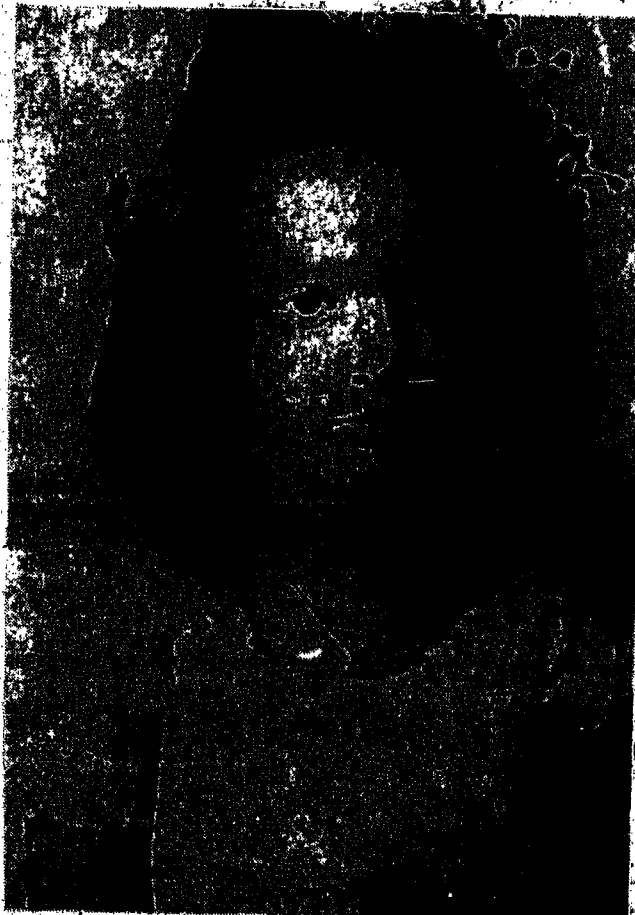

Those award winners are Skip Horne, math; Tommy Zanca, math; Steve Colson, biology and chemistry; Tim Rayner, math and Biology.

In the team competition among 64 schools, the St. Stanislaus team of Hunt Vegas, Tommy Zanca, Skip Horne and John Gallagher reached the final round with the eight top schools. These students eventually finished third overall in the state.

James Thriffiley, chairman of the science department at St. Stanislaus, accompanied the students to the competition.

NATCHEZ—When Grace McKittrick McNeil was a little girl, Natchez was a city in transition. Good times were giving way to hard times of the 20s and 30s. Today, hard times have given way to a prosperous, modernized city, a city still in renaissance, where oil has replaced cotton as king. Mississippi ETV recounts the history of Natchez by presenting its own people, including a grown-up Mrs. McNeil, to tell the story. "Natchez" can be seen at 3 p.m., Sunday, March 21, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Photo courtesy of the Norman Collection by Joan W. Gandy and Thomas H. Gandy.

"IT'S ONLY A DREAM AWAY"—Special television goes behind the scenes of Hollywood's newest musical in a special presentation, "Lights! Camera! Action! The Making of a Major Hollywood Musical," at 8 p.m., Wednesday, March 24, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Ten-year-old Aileen Quinn plays the title role. The program is a part of "Festival Nights," a period of special programming designed to increase viewer awareness of public television.

Canned salmon warning issued

The Mississippi State Board of Health is cooperating with U.S. Food and Drug Administration staff to find and recall potentially harmful canned salmon.

FDA officials have learned that 7.75-ounce metal cans of salmon produced by Neco-Fidalgos Seafoods, Ketchikan, Alaska, in 1980 and 1981 could possibly have type E botulism contamination.

"This serious public health problem was brought to the attention of FDA when two people in Belgium were stricken with botulism from eating pink salmon which had been processed at the Ketchikan plant on July 24, 1980," said Hayward E. Mayfield, director of the Nashville district FDA office.

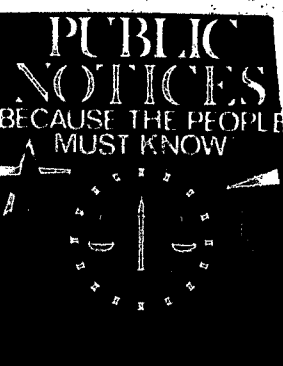

State Board of Health sanitarians and FDA officials are checking stores in 66 Mississippi counties that have been identified as distribution points.

The salmon has been sold under a variety of brand names. The only way to accurately identify the cans is by the code stamped on one of the ends.

The cans have a two-line code, with five numbers or letters on the top line and four numbers or letters on the bottom. Cans under recall have "K13" in the second, third, and fourth positions of the top line.

State Board of Health sanitarians will check all distribution points. Consumers should also check their shelves and return potentially contaminated cans to the grocer. The sanitarians' reports will not be available before March 18.

Additional information is available by contacting the FDA Nashville District office, telephone 615-251-5851, or by calling Louis Fernandez, Hancock County sanitarian.

Hancock state's leading producer in 1940

Pecan growing moving north

By MARK LEGGETT
The pecans are moving north. In 1920 the largest number of pecan trees per county was in Adams, Harrison and Jackson counties, but by 1974 Coahoma and Bolivar counties led the state.

These figures are from a paper by University of Southern Mississippi - Geography and Area Development student Westley Powell of Pensacola.

The pecan industry in Mississippi harvested over 1,700,000 pounds of pecans in 1974 with 530 farms reporting sales of $2,500 or more from improved pecans.

"Improved pecans are defined as transplanted seedlings or trees that have been grafted with budwood from more desirable varieties," according to Powell who used the "Census of Agriculture" as his basis for the paper.

In 1920 the northern half of the state was noticeably lacking in pecans while there were over 6,500 pecan trees in each of the three southern counties mentioned.

By 1930 Wilkinson, Hancock, Stone, George, Pearl River, Forrest and Jones counties were added to the leading producers with Harrison and Jackson counties still the largest producers.

By 1940 Hinds, Lamar and Perry counties were also big pecan areas, and Hancock County was the leading producer. The next decade saw Bolivar and Washington counties become major pecan growing areas.

Powell gives several possible reasons for the early lead of South Mississippi in the pecan industry: more abundant rainfall, larger amounts of available farm land, and the close proximity of Louisiana, where pecan propagation was long established.

Between 1950 and 1959 something nearly decimated the pecan population and Powell speculates that a new type of disease or insect infestation may have been responsible for the decline after so many years of steady increase.

After the statewide drop in the number of trees evident in the 1959 census some counties had begun to recover by 1964 but the pecan industry's worst blow was yet to come.

The pecan tree produces relatively few limbs and these are very fragile. Limbs are very easily blown down, and trees are uprooted when exposed to a combination of intense rainfall and high winds.

Between 1964 and 1969 hurricanes Hilda, which came through New Orleans and turned east just south of Hattiesburg, Betsy, which ran up the Mississippi River and Camille, which went the length of the state, practically destroyed the state crop.

Hurricanes were also responsible for bringing in from the Caribbean and other areas to the south, disease causing spores which can be as harmful to pecans as the high winds.

The 1974 census showed Jackson county with less than 100 trees, and the state of South Mississippi well below what it had been in number of trees in 1920. Producers were advised to replant and replant after hurricanes, according to Powell.

This led to the decline of South Mississippi as the pecan industry's stronghold while the Delta region has been strengthening all along.

TITLE INSURANCE QUESTION: What is title insurance and what protection does it give me? L.M. Macon

ANSWER: Dear L.M., Title insurance provides protection to a named insured for loss sustained from title defects not excepted in the policy. This type of protection extends not only to negligent errors and omissions by the title examiner but also to hidden or unknown defects in title before the date of the title policy. In addition to indemnification of losses, the title insurance company also promises to pay the cost of defending a lawsuit brought about because of alleged defects in title insured by the policy.

Title insurance involves the payment of a single premium at the time that the coverage is purchased. Premiums vary from company to company, but usually range between $3.50 and $5 per $1,000 of coverage. This premium is in addition to the costs of the title examination itself.

In general, there are two types of title insurance policies: 1) the owner's policy and 2) the lender's policy. Many lenders require a borrower to take out a policy in favor of the lender at the time a loan is made for the principal amount of the loan.

As the principal is amortized, the maximum coverage on the policy is also reduced. Even though the owner may pay the premium on the lender's policy, in the event of loss due to a title defect, the owner's equity interest is not protected.

In addition, after indemnification is made to the lender, the insurance company, by right of subrogation, may be able to place a lien on the property unless the owner also has title insurance coverage with the same company. This coverage can be acquired under an owner's policy for a small additional premium which is paid at the same time the lender's policy is purchased.

WHY KIDS TAKE DRUGS

How would you summarize the present drug scene, particularly as it has to do with the young person?

We appear to have, particularly in the 10- to 16-year-old group, a higher percentage of severe drug abuse than we did 10 years ago, as high as 15 percent of that age group.

If a person begins using one drug, is it easier for him to become a multirug user?

It has become clear that people who use marijuana also may drink alcohol, they may smoke cigarettes, and will likely dabble at least with cocaine and PCP.

Why do you think teenagers have gone in this direction?

One cause is the continued breakdown of the family. Another factor is the use of cigarettes by young people. A person usually is a regular cigarette smoker before he becomes a regular user of marijuana or PCP. Also, society has gotten more complex. Teenagers have difficulty developing a self-image and a direction in life, and as a result, tend to cop out with drugs. Another factor is the fact that teenagers can't do much in their idle time. The child who's not in athletics or other activity doesn't have anything to do.

Is it true that the earlier a person starts these habits the greater will be the impact?

The earlier it's started, the more destructive it can be. If a child starts smoking cigarettes at age eight, he never really learns to solve problems with a clear mind. He may not be off drugs long enough to develop self-esteem and coping mechanisms.

What do you suggest on this subject to young people when you talk with them?

Rather than telling teenagers about the hazards of drugs, I give them encouragement that life is worth living, that drugs tend to deprive people of the ability to mature and grow into the kind of person they want to be.

JD, Perk schedule early summer term

An early summer semester has been added at Gulf Coast Junior College to accommodate people who want to begin classes prior to the regular summer session, Dr. J. J. Hayden Jr. announced.

Hayden, GCJC president, said the early semester will begin on April 5 and end on July 23. Registration will be on April 1 and 2 at the Jefferson Davis, Perkinston, and Jackson County campuses.

Only four courses will be offered, Hayden said. They are English, psychology, oral communications and history. Each will be taught once a week from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Monday through Thursday.

Students enrolling for the early semester "possibly will also be able to take courses during the regular day and evening session that begins on May 26," Hayden said.

He said any person who meets college entrance requirements will be eligible to register for the early semester. "This includes students now in their senior year in high school."

Many high school seniors face the loss of Social Security educational benefits unless they are enrolled in a college before the May 1 cutoff date.

"The college policy is to admit seniors who have 15 or more units and the permission of high school authorities," Hayden said. Those with fewer than 15 units might be permitted to enroll at GCJC, but any college credits earned would not be awarded until they had satisfactorily completed the required high school courses.

Hayden said that in addition to the academic credit courses offered to students entering the early semester, vocational programs are available now to people who want to study in one of these areas.

"We have an open-entry, open-exit system that enables students to enroll in a vocational program every Monday," Hayden said. But he advised against doing this "unless the students are reasonably certain they want to pursue a career in a vocational field."

Of the nearly 1,000 students who are enrolling in the early semester, Hayden said, "it is successful because of the ability to gain credit for college courses."

Many people have indicated they are interested in this sort of thing and they're happy to respond to their wishes," he added.

Spring brings out the "farmer" in many Mississippians. In the yard, on the farm, and at construction sites, people take to the soil to do a little digging here or there. Quite often the digging produces some unexpected results—one being a cut telephone cable.

South Central Bell puts cables underground to protect the cables and to help keep Mississippi beautiful. But we need the help of all "diggers" to protect those cables.

If you're a contractor, machine operator, or a homeowner planning to dig in your yard, please call our buried cable location service before you dig. We'll send someone to your digging site to locate the cable and mark its route for you—absolutely charge (48-hour notice requested).

One call to our buried cable location service will locate all telephone cables in your yard or on your property. For many, this is a lifesaving service. A home without a telephone is a home without a lifeline.

Our service is available to all customers who have a telephone service with South Central Bell. It's a free service, and it's available to all customers who have a telephone service with South Central Bell.

You'll find the buried cable location service in our Customer Care Center. Call our toll-free number 1-800-368-3683. We'll protect your service—call before you dig.

Brownbuilder
George Lafontaine:
One of the Best

George Lafontaine, from Bay St. Louis, is helping build the economic growth and progress of his state as part of Brown & Root's worldwide engineering and construction team.

George joined Brown & Root in 1979 as a carpenter and is now a carpenter foreman. He and his wife, Marion, have five children and attend Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis. A U.S. Army veteran, George enjoys fishing, hunting and camping with his family.

Another thing about George: he's one of the best. He's helping Brown & Root do a better job, because he knows his job and gets it done right.

Wherever Brown & Root works, we always look for people like George. We give preference in hiring to people in jobsite communities and offer them opportunities to advance as fast and as far as their abilities and merit take them. That way, we share the benefits of every job with local people and share the economic benefits of payrolls, purchases, savings and taxes with local communities and states.

Brownbuilder George Lafontaine helps us all by being one of the best.

Mineral lease seminar slated

The University of Southern Mississippi will help landowners find out exactly where they stand when it comes to their oil and gas leases in a March 27 seminar. The Oil, Gas and Mineral Leases seminar, to be conducted by attorney Richard D. Foxworth of Columbia, will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the University Union. Foxworth received his bachelors and masters degrees in geology from Millsaps College and the University of Missouri, respectively. After graduation he worked for Texaco, Inc. as a petroleum geologist. He later earned the Bachelor of Law degree from the University of Mississippi. The seminar will review basic concepts of oil and gas exploration and production and define interests in oil, gas and minerals. Deeds, leases and royalties will also be reviewed. For additional information contact Cindy Gamble, Southern Station Box 5055, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401 or call 266-4183.

Volunteerism seminar slated by USM alums

Mississippi social workers are making an effort to solve the problem of cuts to social service funding. One step in solving the problem is stimulating interest in our state in one available natural resource - volunteers. The University of Southern Mississippi's alumni association and graduate school of social work plan to co-sponsor a workshop highlighting the role of natural helpers in our state. Registration for the workshop will begin at 9:30 a.m. on Friday, March 19. The workshop will run from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. There is no fee for participation in this event, and both volunteers and those who use volunteers in their work are encouraged to attend. For more information, call Jo Ellen Reid at Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, 863-1132. Ruth Wilson, director of the Governor's Office of Voluntary Citizen Participation, will address the topics of recruitment, training, and creative use of volunteers.

USM dance presentation

The Phyllis Korman Dance Company will present a dance at 8 p.m. in the University Arts Center on the University of Southern Mississippi campus.

Widely praised for her choreography, Korman has brought together a variety of works ranging from the street to the dramatic to the humorous.

She has been the artistic director for the company for the last 10 years. Korman was a featured dancer with the Alvin Ailey Dance Company from 1948-69.

The company has toured extensively in the U.S., appearing at festivals, theatres and universities, as well as presenting a regular annual season in New York.

The New York Times, commenting on her over three decades in dance, called her the "the clown princess of dance," a dance comedienne.

The presentation is part of the Arts Center Series. Admission will be $3 for students and $5 general admission. For additional information call 266-7271.

A group appearance is made possible through the Eastern Arts Festival, the National Endowment for the Arts and the Mississippi Arts Commission.
